

American Red Oak.

| Quercus rubra |

All images used are for representation purposes only.

American Red Oak.

A timber that is even more abundant than White Oak, and grows mainly in North-eastern USA and South-eastern Canada. Red Oak is only suitable for interior work such as furniture, cabinetry and flooring. It machines, stains and finishes well, and is less expensive than White Oak, so is a popular timber in the USA, which could, and should be more widely used in the UK.

For more information please visit: www.sykestimber.co.uk

Origin. North-eastern USA and South-eastern Canada.	Density. 690kgs/m ³
Availability. Square edged kiln dried boards.	Movement in Service. Medium.
Grade. 'Sykes Grade' upgraded from FAS/1F 90/10	Thicknesses available. 1", 1.25", 1.5", 2"
Colour. Pale pink to reddish brown, clearly defined paler sap.	Length and width specification. 6' and longer x 4" and wider.
Applications. Internal furniture and shop-fitting, coffins.	Basic price Level. Medium.
Durability. Non durable.	Summary. Good timber for internal uses, machines, stains and polishes well. Paints highlight the grain. Kinder to work than American White Oak.