

Coconut.

| Cocos nucifera |

All images used are for representation purposes only.

Coconut.

Coconut or Red Palm is produced from old plantation logs that have declined in their production of coconuts, so are felled to make way for new planting. Previously the logs used to be burnt, but it was discovered the outer parts of the log produce a dense, stable and visually stunning timber, ideal for flooring, cabinetry or furniture, making the recovery of wood from these logs an environmentally ideal process.

For more information please visit: www.sykestimber.co.uk

Origin. Mafia island -Tanzania.	Density. 700-800kgs/m ³
Availability. Square edged air dried boards.	Movement in Service. Small.
Grade. Prime.	Thicknesses available. 1"
Colour. Dark reddish brown with black streaks and white flecks.	Length and width specification. 4"-6", 7"
Applications. Flooring, Cabinet making and Furniture.	Basic price Level. Medium.
Durability. Moderately durable to durable.	Summary. Highly decorative and exotic appearance, works well and is environmentally friendly.